The new year has begun, and everyone seems to be settling back into their routines. Many of you are glad to have the busyness of the holidays behind you and many are glad to be feeling better. A few of you continue to struggle with illness. I hope that changes soon.

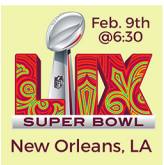

February is the shortest month; however, it has many days of observance. We have combined three of them (National Snack Food Month, Super Bowl, and National Pizza Day) for one great giveaway that can be enjoyed during the game.

Don't forget to observe the day of love with your special person or people.
